THOUGHT and COMMENT

FOR MEN ONLY

A BARBER SHOP FOR WOMEN ONLY

Many ladies who object to the presence of men when they are having their hair bobbed will be glad to learn that after 9 A. M. the Beauty Shop is reserved for women only. Expert male operators will be employed, however, as heretofore.

Only experienced operators employed. A quiet and refined atmosphere.

The above is clipped from an advertisement in the Columbia South Carolina Record. It speaks for itself.

This means that father and brother will have to get their morning shower and ham and eggs and have their face scraped before the hour of nine o'clock, if they don't want to look like the heavy in the movie thriller, for the remainder of the day.

The south which has always been noted for its courtesy to the ladies, seems to have gone the remainder of the country one better again, but what is to become of mere man before this whole thing is over, is a question. The barber shop USED to be one place where the confirmed bachelor and father had an opportunity to get away from the fair sex when they so desired.

Those days are gone forever now, and not content with encroaching alone, friend wife and her friends are now insisting that we get up early in order to get our morning shave. We are going to watch the pages of the Columbia Record for an announcement announcing that in the future his tonsorial artists will confine their activities to the shaving of manly chins and the trimming of locks that curl above a collar button.

MAIL PILOT IS KILLED IN FALL

(By Universal Service)
ST. PAUL, June 6.—Caught in a high wind the mail plane piloted by Elmer Partridge of Chicago was flung to the earth nine miles south of here late today, a short time after the aviator had started his first trip from the Twin Cities to Chicago. It was the inauguration of the new route. Partridge was killed instantly.

The aviator left here ninety minutes late because of the high winds. He believed that evening would bring a cessation of the gale.

Partridge took off with his nose pointing into a stiff wind.

The plane battled for the air and finally soared into the clouds weighed with hundreds of pounds of mail.

A few minutes later officials of the air field were called on the telephone by a farmer south of the city.

Partridge was one of the oldest pilots in the midwest in point of mail service.

COUNTY POLITICAL POT STARTS BOILING WITH ANNOUNCEMENTS

Although the primary election for the nomination of county officers will not be held until August 31st, candidates are beginning to appear in the field in opposition to those who are now in office.

COUNTY ASSESSOR

John Miller, park commissioner of this city and deputy internal revenue collector for the past four years, has definitely decided that he will enter the race for assessor against Assessor George O. Meese. Miller is very strong in this city, and has a wide acquaintance in all parts of the county. PUBLIC ADMINISTRATOR

Raymond Johnson, city clerk of Martinez, has shied his hat into the ring for the office of public administrator, and will contend for the office against Charles E. Dufey.

CORONER'S FIGHT

The coroner's fight, with two Richmond men the contenders, Aubrey Wilson and Charles E. Donnelly, (incumbent) is attracting a great deal of attention. As soon as Wilson made his announcement, Donnelly revoked his appointment as deputy coroner, and appointed Bert Curry as his chief aid, which practically throws Curry into the fight. There is much speculation as to what effect this new appointment will have, some contending that it will alienate many votes from Donnelly. The different moves on the political checkerboard in this fight is being watched with a great deal of interest. It is claimed that Wilson will be supported by practically all of the undertakers of the county, who were former deputies of Donnelly.

REGGIARDO MAY RUN

Word was brought here last night that Sheriff Veale would have a contender in the person of Tony Reggiardo of Martinez.

It was stated that Reggiardo would make his announcement this week. It will be remembered that Reggiardo ran against Veale four years ago. There were three men in the primaries, the other candidate being Tony Reggiardo.

Council Calls for Band Stand Bids

Revised plans for the construction of the band stand in Memorial park were presented by Councilman Mrs. J. H. Chandler, was accepted by the city council last night. The date for opening bids on the proposed work, which will also include a women's rest room, was set for Monday, June 21.

Among the alterations made in the former plans, which were rejected by the council two weeks ago, because of the costs involved, include lowering of the height by ten feet and changing the appearance of the front.

As it is planned to cover the entire building with vines, the council felt that many of the decorative features employed by the architect, Ernest Flores, could be eliminated without marring the appearance of the structure.

The present plans are expected to reduce the cost to an amount available by the funds allotted and at the same time assure the city of a suitable structure. No alterations in the size of the structure other than in height, has been made and it is believed that the new stand will accommodate seventy musicians, besides furnishing dressing rooms.

The alterations, which have changed the appearance of the front by incorporating an arch to take the place of the former ornamented wall above the band shell adds to rather than detracts from the former plans.

FINAL PASSAGE OF FIFTY YEAR LEASE DEPENDANT UPON PARR'S COMPLIANCE WITH ITS TERMS

CITY WOULD RECEIVE ONE HALF OF
NET INCOME UNDER TERMS OF
LEASE BEING CONSIDERED

After months of negotiations between the city of Richmond and the Parr Terminal company of Oakland for the leasing of the municipal wharves and lands adjacent to the harbor, the city council last night passed the lease at its first reading. Should the Terminal company demonstrate to the city that it is able to live up to the terms decided upon in the lease, the city council will pass the second reading of the proposed lease, turning over to the Terminal company the properties in question for a period of fifty years.

By the terms of the lease, the Terminal company agrees to give to the city one-half of the yearly net income received.

After a ten-hour conference between City Attorney T. M. Carlson and the attorney of the Parr Terminal company, a lease satisfactory to both was arrived at and presented to the city council at its regular session last night.

A preliminary reading of the lease was held at a committee session held in the council chambers yesterday afternoon following which the lease was revised and presented to the council last night.

MAN SWAPS 2 TIRES FOR BABY

(By Universal Service)
HEALDSBURG, June 7.—To date the book account between J. Mafente and a mysterious stranger stands as follows:

J. Mafente Garage in account with John Doe.

Dr.—Two automobile tires . . . $18.00

Cr.—One 6-weeks-old boy baby 0.00

The baby was left at the garage in the outskirts of Healdsburg to insure payment on the tires but, after consultation with his friends, Mafente is beginning to believe that the man with the lumpy infant and the broken-down flier was perhaps only kidding him.

It was along toward evening yesterday when the stranger entered Mafente's garage and opened negotiations for a pair of second-hand tires. One obstacle to the transaction was the fact that the stranger had no money.

"That's all right," he explained airily, "the restaurant man up the street knows me."

The restaurant man didn't but the ice had been broken and the baby did the rest.

"Well, if you won't trust me," said the stranger, "I'll leave the baby here as security. I'll be back later and pay you for the tires."

Upon this basis the deal was consummated. The tires and the baby changed hands and everyone was satisfied until this morning, when it dawned upon Mafente that he did not even know the stranger's name. He has an idea that the man said he lived near Fort Bragg.

The stranger's wife told Mrs. Mafente that they were going into the hills where it was very cold and really wanted to leave the baby some place where it would be warm. The middle-aged, garage-keeper and his wife without children of their own, were struck with the idea and allowed sentiment to interfere a little bit with business.

They had a warm home and a cozy and a place in their hearts for a little fellow.

"I don't care if that fellow never comes back," said Mafente yesterday. "It's a good bargain if he doesn't." My wife is tickled to death."

The stranger's wife told Mrs. Mafente that they were going into the hills where it was very cold and really wanted to leave the baby some place where it would be warm. The middle-aged, garage-keeper and his wife without children of their own, were struck with the idea and allowed sentiment to interfere a little bit with business.

TIPPING IN ITALY

Among the reforms affected by the Fascist regime in Italy is the abolition of "tipping" in hotels. This has been accomplished by charging the guest 1 per cent of his bill and distributing this supercharge among the employees, according to a legalized schedule. The guest is saved nothing in expense; but he is saved the embarrassment and uncertainty which arose from the impossibility of ever knowing if his tips were too large or too small. While they were about it the Fascist might better have gone to the bottom of the matter and insisted on the payment of wages sufficient to enable hotel help to live without gratuities. The tipping system in this country is an imported absurdity of Europe, which is unsatisfactory from every standpoint. Some guests evade tips entirely, some give too much, some too little; with the result that the service received is as irregular and uncertain as this gratuitous remuneration. American hotel men would be wise to cooperate in practical measures to discourage a custom that is embarrassing to the public and humiliating to employees.

A FLAG FOR CANADA

Canada is a nation without a flag, a fact which frets many Canadians increasingly. South Africa has just adopted a national flag. The Irish Free State has had its own flag from the beginning. Australia and New Zealand have had distinctive flags for some years.

Canada, alone among the larger dominions of the British empire, continues to fly the borrowed flag of Great Britain.

The interest in a distinctive Canadian flag has been revived by the adoption by the Union of South Africa of a flag in which the Union Jack does not appear, a hint, advocates of a distinctive flag for Canada assert, that if the Canadian imperialists persist in their opposition to any flag for Canada but the Union Jack they may eventually have to accept a flag in which that unmistakable symbol of empire connection is not present. This is not likely to be the case. Canada will some day have its own flag as the other dominions have; but that it will clearly denote the British connection is as foregone as any conclusion can be. The sanity of the Canadian people as a whole will prevail over the radicalism of the separatist and the reactionism of the Tory imperialist.

THIS CONGRESS IS DRY

The present congress is implacably emphatically dry and furthermore the next congress will be of the same general character.

Some weeks ago in these dispatches the statement was made that no matter how high the blood pressure might rise during the prohibition debates before a committee of congress, in the end the congress would stand by the prohibition amendment and would instead of modifying the same be more likely to strengthen it. That's just the situation which has developed.

The hearings have hurt the wet cause and even the moderate amenders now appreciate that situation.

There are crudities of various kinds particularly in the Volstead law, but no one is disposed to take a chance by correction of these crudities by legislation lest the opening of the door result in the wholesale denaturing of the law itself.

It is said that New York City uses more electric current than a dozen European countries with 112,000,000 people. No wonder it so often shocks the rest of the country.

Some Pages from American History

by VICTOR MORGAN

"STEAM WAGON"

Fulton had shown that the steam engine could be successfully used to propel boats. Why could not the same idea be applied to anything on wheels. After many experiments and many failures a man in England named Stephenson invented a "steam wagon," or locomotive. Many ingenious American mechanics had meantime been experimenting with the same principle. Stephenson's "steam wagon" drew a train of cars on a track at the rate of fifteen miles an hour.

In 1828 ground was broken in Carrollton, Maryland, for the construction of a railroad from Baltimore westward. The road is now part of the Baltimore and Ohio railway system. Charles Carroll performed the ground-breaking ceremony. He was then over ninety years of age and the only person living who had signed the Declaration of Independence. Striking the spade into the ground with a firm hand, Carroll said: "I consider this among the most important acts of my life, second only to that of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, if second even to that."

Peter Cooper, since widely known for his noble gift of the Cooper Institute to New York City, built the first locomotive which ran over the road. His engine drew a rudely constructed open wagon filled with passengers, but that in itself was a great triumph. The first road was only thirteen miles in length and the first trip took somewhat less than an hour. On its return trip the train raced with a spirited horse belonging to one of the Baltimore stage coach lines. Both train and horse did their best, and when steam conquered at a great shout went up. That shout foretold the end of the stage coaches.

NEW IDEAS FOR COMBINING FABRICS

Simple lines and high contrasts characterize the frock pictured to the left. Plain crepe satin and figured crepe de Chine combine to make it up. The wide flares which give the model its fashionable silhouette are achieved by side panels which graduate from beneath the arms to the lower edge of the skirt. The neck is in round outline, back and front, and the long sleeves flare over the wrists. Medium size requires 2 3/4 yards 36-inch figured and 1 1/4 yard plain material.

Circular panels of Georgette hemmed with ribbon to correspond in color with the figures in the crepe de Chine used for the development of the frock give this model distinction. The round neckline is finished with a band of ribbon under which the dress is gathered at either side of the front. The long, close-fitting sleeves have darts at the wrists. Medium size requires 3 3/4 yards 36-inch figured and 1 1/4 yard plain material, with 2 yards of ribbon. First Model: Pictorial Review Printed Pattern No. 2977. Size 14 to 18 years and 34 to 44 inches bust. 45 cents.

Second Model: Printed Pattern No. 3029. Sizes, 16 to 20 years and 34 to 44 inches bust. 45 cents.

A New York engineering expert warns against too much haste in constructing the new subway. Evidently he wants them to take their time and make a hole that won't wear out.

BROKEN HEARTS of HOLLYWOOD

BY EDWARD CLARK

Copyrighted by Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"BROKEN HEARTS OF HOLLYWOOD" with Louise Dresser is a Warner picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Beautiful Betsy Terrilliger and handsome Hal Chutney, mutually attracted, arrive in Hollywood as prize winners of newspaper contests, for movie tryouts. They take rooms in a boarding house frequented by movie actors. Marshall, reputed to be responsible for many of the "broken hearts of Hollywood," takes an interest in Betsy. Reporting at the studio, they are depressed and amazed by the number of people seeking work. Movie oddities see a mysterious resemblance in Betsy to someone they cannot remember.

Cameron had no time to spend in attempts to place a casual resemblance that flickered across his memory. He turned and searched out the waiting, gaping crowd of extras, then called:

"You, Jenvis—and you, Miss Baker—come here, please."

In response there stepped up to Cameron a raw-boned youth of dogged mien, and a girl the dawning stoniness of whose pretty face and eyes was far, far too shamefully premature an accompaniment for the fetchingly youthful roundness of her figure which was revealingly set off by a neat but shabby dress.

Cameron had these many years done business on the theory that the bluntest and quickest method of blasting hopes, of conferring pain, is the kindest. Betsy and encouragement, "don't feel that way about it. If it wasn't you it would be somebody else. It's all in the game. I'll try and fix those two up with something else."

"Oh, will you really, please?" "I said I would!"

Betsy and Hal, dazed and sick from their primary insight into the cutthroat atmosphere of a casting office, followed the boy out into the Yard with an eagerness that was augmented by their desire to escape the hostile, covetous surveillance of the lobbyful of broken people—most of them broken in hope, many in body, and all in heart.

Now they were crossing the Yard, in the very midst of "fairland," but instead of a gossamer beauty all that the inside view presented to their wide open stares was a complex mess of pots and wires and ladders and vehicles of all sorts, from Roman chariots to Fords, and painted sets that did not look half so attractive from the back as they did on the screen, and such a mob of idling, jabbering people that Betsy and Hal, hand in hand, found it difficult to thread their way through after the elusive office boy. Mostly they were conscious of wires—wires—wires—and the intolerable heat of a California sun burning down into the great cement quadrangle, cooking every one and everything there en caserole.

Betsy and Hal felt thrilled by the excitement and bustle, stirred by the unfamiliar sounds and smells—yet lost. On the heels of the boy they presently entered a low building at the far side of the Yard, and found themselves confronting a wicker cage in which were two windows, not unlike banking windows; one labelled MEN, the other WOMEN.

The boy turned in the slips, one at each window, to a man and a woman inside the cages where the floor, Betsy noted quickly, was littered with rags and tags of var-colored cloth and odds and ends of costumes. Back of this open space long shelves extended into mysterious and gloomy recesses, while doors connected auxiliary store rooms, each of which, she could glimpse through the open doors, was crammed full of costumes of one sort or another, and packed in one way or another some hanging up, some shelved.

The woman glanced expertly at Betsy, and, without a word, turned and disappeared into one of the adjacent rooms; the man went through a similar performance with Hal. Long experience had made it possible for these wardrobe heads to estimate at a single glance the size of garment any person would require.

"Wait here," instructed the office boy, curtly, as he turned to go. "They'll fix you up with duds and tell you where to dress and where to report."

"What pictures are we to be in?" asked Betsy breathlessly, with a resurrected interest as the excitement of actual realization at last banished from her mind for the time being thoughts of the tragic encounters at the "gate."

"Aw, it'd take too long to explain," tipped the boy, "I'm going now to hunt up the assistant directors of each company and tell them that Cameron says Butler's passed out the word to fit you in. They'll be sorer'n h—, I'll tell the Turpin-eyes, work, but you should worry. If the Old Man says you're in, then you're in—till you're out!" With that profundity lingering after him to further becloud Betsy and Hal, the youngster departed.

But Betsy and Hal had not long to worry and wonder, for the wardrobe man reappeared inside the cage and called Hal down to the end of the high wiring, where, upon a counter, he dumped before him a complete Western cowboy outfit, a lea movies, including chaps, shirt, boots, kerchief, gun belt, revolver, and sombrero.

While Hal—with Betsy, who had tipped down to his elbow to peek—stared at the outfit in perplexity, the man glanced at Hal's slip again, then informed him:

"You will dress in No. 2. Wait there until you're called!" passing the slip to Hal.

"Where is No. 2?" asked Hal. "Where is No. 2?" asked Hal. "Where is No. 2?" asked Hal.

The overworked wardrobe man snarled, "G'wan out in the Yard and ask somebody. I can't explain from here. It's too complicated."

Betsy, meanwhile, had been summoned to a counter at the opposite end of the cage by the wardrobe woman; Hal went there to see how she was faring.

He found Betsy staring in horror and shame at a very scanty one-piece bathing suit, which she had picked up from the counter where the wardrobe woman had thrown it.

Employees of Standard Oil Receive Stock

less than the average amount, it is a safe estimate to place the amount at between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000.

Under the plan begun by the company four and one-half years ago and originally set for five years, each employee was permitted to acquire stock at an amount not to exceed twenty per cent of the amount of their salaries. For each dollar invested the company added a bonus of fifty cents. As the shares were paid for the stock plan was discontinued after January 1 of this year running a period of four and one-half years.

During its period of active operation the participating employees saved about $15,750,000. To this the company added more than $7,750,000. Through dividends and the sale of rights the employees accumulated approximately $2,300,000 more, making a total of nearly $26,000,000. The market value of the stock purchased is now about $28,000,000.

Previous to the distribution of the stock Joseph F. Brooks, general manager of all of the refineries of the company addressed the employees of the company on the best way in which to take care of their stock and not throw it on the market for whatever price they could get.

He pointed out that if the stock was sold the saving plan which the company had in mind when it started the plan would be of no avail.

If the employees of the company will keep their stock there is a possibility that a similar plan may be adopted by the company in the future according to statements made by Brooks yesterday.

The employees were assembled at the cafeteria of the company and immediately after the address the men were taken to the main offices in groups of ten and twelve and the stock which had been brought in under a heavy guard was given out to the men with the dividend checks which the stock had earned since the plan was first adopted.

TEN HOMES ARE STARTED HERE

Ten new homes and one apartment house were added to Richmond's growing building campaign yesterday when City Building Inspector E. E. Grow issued permits totaling $31,000.

At the cost of $2,100 each, C. A. Torrell, Oakland builder, will erect ten new homes in the vicinity of Thirty-fifth street and Garvin avenue. Torrell has been planning the construction of a large number of homes in Richmond for several months and will begin his building program immediately. Each of the homes will be modern in every detail and will have garages.

After the present number of homes are completed, Torrell will begin construction on a large number of dwellings of the same type, he states.

Mrs. Alice Carpenter secured a permit to erect an apartment house on the south side of Bissell avenue between Thirteenth street and Fourteenth street at a cost of $10,000. A building now occupying a part of the site will be removed and a permit for such work was secured. The cost of this work will amount to $1,000.

John Olding is the contractor for the apartment house which will contain four three-room apartments containing many features not found in many buildings of similar type.

Subtle Egypt Background for Richmond Film

Mysterious, subtle Egypt forms the background of "Infatuation," Corinne Griffith's latest First National release, which made its bow at the Richmond Theatre last night.

The film is an adaptation of W. Somerset Maugham's stage hit, "The Wife."

Although the husband is aware of the young wife of a middle-aged British diplomat stationed at the Cairo embassy, feeling that her husband is neglecting her because of the press of his official duties, she engages in an "affair du coeur" with his secretary.

Just what this incident is moviegoers will discover to their intense satisfaction. It would be cruel to forewarn them.

As Lady Little, Corinne Griffith gives a beautiful performance—some of the best she has ever given. Percy Marmont supports her as Sir Arthur Little. Malcolm MacGregor is the "other man." The rest of the cast includes Warner Oland, Leota Lorraine, Martha Mattox, Claire Duxbury and Charles Selwyn.

Legion Council Plans Picnic for Disabled Vets

When the county council of the American Legion met last night in the Memorial hall, a decision was reached to hold a picnic for the veterans who are now confined at the Letterman hospital, at San Francisco, on the tentative date of July 10. As yet no place to hold the event has been decided upon.

Miss Bardell was adjudged in contempt of court for violation of an injunction that perpetually restrained from the sale of liquor from the "Tenth Street Club," Charles Wilson, an under cover agent, testified that he had purchased liquor from the girl. She did not deny the allegations.

Contra Costa county added $5,086.62 to the state coffers during the last half of the fiscal year according to the report.

Los Angeles County paid in the largest sum, Treasurer Johnson announced, its semi-annual payment amounting to $1,928,784.76. This boosted the Los Angeles total for the year to $2,527,613.37.

Other items covered in the settlements included: Support of correctional schools and the Sonoma State Home, 10 per cent; receipts from estates of deceased persons, 2 per cent; school lands, 1 per cent.

Crazed Man is Chained to Post For 16 Years

(By Universal Service)

SAN ANTONIO, June 7.—Chained to a post for 16 years with but a rude hook to protect him from the elements Juan Garcia, 35, insane, was discovered by police today in this prison where he had been held by his family.

"He was crazy and we had to keep him locked up," was the simple statement of his mother Mrs. Pedro Garcia who has kept the man isolated from outsiders since a long chain was forced about his left arm in 1910 when he grew violent.

The Garcia's live in Marihuana Flat, an out-of-the-way part of little Mexico where not even the police penetrate except in an emergency when the seculsiv-denzons become engaged in fights too big for themselves and self government authorities to handle.

A physician hunting one of the houses in the many carrels stumbled up on the hovel and saw the man, naked with but four feet of iron chain to move about. A heavy growth of hair covered his face and body. He notified officers who went to the scene and discovered the prisoner.

Three giant bulldogs kept guard in the back around the hut where the man was confined. For years these dogs have kept inquisitive people away.

The hut is located in a dense growth of weeds in the back of a Shanty the Garcia's live in. They said they had fed the man in his prison and that when the weather was cold they provided clothing to keep him warm.

They feared that he would die if taken away.

Recovers After Suicide Try Over Actress

(By Universal Service)

LOS ANGELES, June 7.—Robert S. Savage, 32, former Yale football star, polo player and son of a millionaire steel magnate, was recovering at General Hospital today from his admitted attempt at suicide because Clara Bow, film actress had "turned him down."

"I'll win her yet," declared Savage as he gazed at the bandages on his wrist, which he had slashed with a razor blade Saturday night. "All I want is about one week more. I'll make her love me."

"Mr. Savage is just an episode in my young life," said the actress today. "As a lover he is a wonderful poet. I am wild about poetry, but as for being in love with him—somebody tell another funny one."

Miss Bow said she would not visit Savage at the hospital or see him again for fear he would try to stage "another one of those touching scenes."

Slavery Exists in Nineteen Sections Declare Churchmen

(By Universal Service)

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Slavery still exists in nineteen sections of the world, the Federal Council of Churches declared today.

Calling attention to this traffic in human bodies, flourishing principally in Africa, the church organization, in a letter to the State Department, urged that the United States participate in the international conference on slavery and forced labor to be held in September.

Even this government is not free from the taint of forced labor, the council charged, in certain regions of its insular possessions certain forms of peonage are practiced, investigation has revealed. It was stated.

"The evil of slavery and forced labor has been recognized during recent centuries as having international implications and effects," said the appeal to the State Department, adding:

"It is now generally admitted that these evils can be completely overthrown and abolished only by the United and determined expression of the moral judgment of the world, and by persistent, cooperative activities of the more progressive nations."

The international conference will seek to bring about a general convention of the nations at which agreements will be drafted for the complete abolition of slavery and forced labor.

Work Progresses on Garrard Boulevard

City Manager James A. McVittie told the members of the city council last night that he had received no word from the East Bay Water Company in regard to the leakage of pipes on Garrard boulevard.

Contractor Curtis who has started work on the paving of Garrard boulevard told the council last week that leakage from the pipes would cause serious damage on the work. The leaks were said to be caused by electrolysis and seam and joint leaks. The council last week authorized the city manager to take the matter up with the water company.

Lillian Gish Entertaining At California

Sometimes a filmed version of a famous classic is a failure; sometimes a revelation. It is the only one that can adequately describe "La Boheme," now playing at the California Theatre, Lillian Gish's newest vehicle, and which as "Mimi," the tragic heroine of the Latin Quarter, she shows the world a new Lillian Gish.

But this is not the revelation—that lies in the story itself. The world is fond of "La Boheme" as the story is told in the opera, of its tender love story and its plaintive charm; but the tremendous drama of it—the real drama envisioned by the author of the famous old novel on which the opera was based—never shown, even in the significant Puccini music.

"La Boheme" in the film is a poignant drama of human souls; it is a story of love and jealousy; of faith and hope, of we and despair. Lillian Gish, in her role, is carried away by the hitherto-unexpected immensity of the theme. But never for an instant does it lose the vital factor of a great film play—entertainment. It enthralls and charms—but it entertains all ways.

Lillian Gish has given the world "Mimi," the heroine of "The Birth of a Nation," and other not-and-but as "Mimi" she escapes the climax of her career. Probably no one else in the entire world fits the role as she does; she is a veritable reincarnation of that author's brainchild. A wistful world of humanity, buffeted by the world, whose love can fire a man to genius, she is the spokeswoman of many a charmer of the Latin Quarter; an echo of the tragedy of the women of the art colony. She does it with an artistry that is superlative.

John Gilbert, as the romantic poet, Rodolphe, is an excellent love, his fits of jealousy, despair, and flights on Pegasus, has a role he handles with a skill that is verily genius.

As the vivacious Musetta Renee Orde is genuinely French, charming and convincing, and Edward Everett Horton as the humorous Colline is a wonderful foil.

"A Felix the Cat" cartoon, "Topics of the Day" are short films on the program.

New Bank to be Completed by the First of October

The new four-story bank and office building now in the course of construction by the Mercantile Trust company at Tenth street and Macdonald avenue will be completed and ready for occupancy by October 1. A distinct addition to the business district of Richmond and an asset for the Tenth and Macdonald section, the building will be one of the highest commercial structures in the city and will represent an investment of nearly one-quarter of a million dollars.

Built in the Italian renaissance style of architecture, the exterior will be of red brick with marble lintels and trim. The cornice will rise sixty-five feet above the street level.

The main floor, with the exception of the entrance lobby for the offices on the floors above, will be devoted exclusively to the banking quarters. Two entrances, one on Macdonald avenue and the other from the Tenth street lobby will lead into the banking rooms, which besides the main floor will occupy a mezzanine and the basement.

The large vaults of the bank together with deposit vaults, ten coupon rooms and a consultation room will occupy the basement.

The main floor quarters will be elaborately finished and will contain sixteen windows for the various departments of the banking service.

The directors room, accessory departments and a switchboard and service will be located on the mezzanine.

Supported by ornamental columns the ceiling of the main banking room will be profusely decorated and will be at a height of twenty feet above the floor.

The upper floors of the building will contain forty-two offices with ample corridors which will be laid with composition covering. A light and day elevator service will be maintained in the building with the elevators of the automatic type. A large central hall will insure all offices of outside exposure. There will be running water in each of the offices and these on two of the floors will be equipped with compressed air appliances for the use of dentists.

The investment of the Mercantile Trust company at its new Richmond location will offer a distinct service to the city besides adding greatly to the commercial appearance.

Artificial Winds Bowl Over Buildings

(By Universal Service)

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Raising powerful winds and watching them glow over skyscrapers is the latest "sport" of scientists-at the bureau of standards, it was learned today.

The winds are artificial air currents set up in the laboratory and driven with hurricane force through a ten foot wide fan tunnel. The skyscrapers are miniature models, built with the same relative strength as the proudest metropolitan specimens.

With this equipment experts are revising data on the force exerted by ordinary "blows," rumblings and colones. They hope to evolve cyclone-proof homes and buildings at moderate cost.

MARRIAGE LICENSE

Raymond Joseph Murray, 33 and Blanche Mae Peacy, 33, both of Richmond secured a marriage license at Martinez yesterday.

Beauty From Within

Facial beauty cannot come from cosmetics. It must come from within. Anything that mars the complexion—pimples, blackheads, oiliness or blemishes—is due to blood impurity.

Medical science has found a new way to correct it. Physicians are prescribing it to millions. And they consider it one of the marvels of modern medicine.

It is a gland secretion, derived from beef livers. It stimulates the liver, multiplies the flow of bile. And no other method does that.

One result is prompt relief of constipation. The bile floods the bowels—keeps them clear. That result comes in a few hours.

But bile is also Nature's antiseptic. It combats the germs in the intestines—the germs whose poisons cause so many bad complexions. A new flood of bile is the greatest beauty after science knows.

That liver gland secretion is embodied in Dioxol tablets. Each tablet represents ten drops. We urge you to learn what it means to you. The results will amaze and delight you.

BLAH
When two teams congregate to play baseball and really play the game, it is something to watch but when two teams get together and one plays ball and the other plays mumble-peg, it isn't anything a'fall to watch. This happened when the Oaks played the Seattle Indians on Sunday morning at Seattle. It couldn't be called a game for the Indians, for they didn't play ball, they engaged in a game of ring around the rosy, using the bases as a route. The score, incidentally, was 19 to 4, favor of the Indians.

SOCCER
The soccer team of the German warship Hamburg came out on Sunday and tied the Teuton soccer team of San Francisco by a score of 4 to 4 at the Kezar Memorial stadium. A fair sized crowd saw this game which was interesting in spite of the high wind that swept the field. The sailors scored all of their goals in the first half and were leading 4 to 1, at the intermission.

BEARS WIN
The University of California baseball nine opened its season in Hawaii on Sunday by defeating the Hawaiian team by a score of 6-1, in a fast and furious game. Momechek, the Bear hurler held the Hawaiian team to five hits and contributed to his team's victory by knocking a home run, in the fourth inning.

HELEN WILLS
Miss Helen Gross, who represented the United States against England in the Forest Hill matches in 1923, and played extensively in the United States has been substituted for Helen Wills in the Wightman cup series in England. In the meantime Helen, who was operated on Friday for appendicitis, is reported to be doing nicely.

JESS SWEETSER
Jess Sweetser will rank in the minds of the American people from now on as the hero of the Walker cup matches for it became known on Sunday when Sweetser started for the United States, under the care of a doctor that when he won the Walker cup matches he was a sick man. He played through the matches with dangerous throat trouble and should have been in bed.

Hagen and Stein Win in England

SOUTHPORT, ENGLAND, June 7.—Walter Hagen and Joseph Stein defeated Sam Robinson and R. H. Hardman, six up and five to go, in a thirty-six hole exhibition match here today.

RODEO BOYS SWIM STRAITS

RODEO, June 7.—Albert Farlow and Bobby Dreyer of Rodeo succeeded in swimming the Carquinez Straits on Sunday. The boys were accompanied by a boat paddled by Clinton Dreyer. While many older people have crossed the straits this is the first time in record that boys have navigated the cold and swift waters.

U. S. GOLFERS IN ENGLAND

(By Universal Service)
Special Cable Dispatch
FORMBY, England, June 7.—The team of American professional golfers, which suffered such a disastrous defeat in the Ryder cup matches last week, arrived here today, to prepare for the North of England championship tournament which begins tomorrow.
The competition is sure to bring together many of the same opponents who met in the Ryder cup matches last week.
While the professionals' forces have remained intact, the invading amateurs have broken ranks. Watts Gunn and Roland Mackenzie have gone to Paris. Bobby Burns is at St. Anne's. Jesse Sweetser, the new British amateur champion, Francis Kilford, and Francis Quimble sailed for the United States last Saturday.

Keys Defeat the Port Costa Nine

The Richmond Keys defeated the Port Costa nine here on Sunday, in a fast and furious game by a score of 9 to 8. Ike Nemith was in the box and hurled a wonderful game. He struck out thirteen men and allowed a few scattered hits.

Don O'Loan donned the iron mask for the local club. Kelseyville will be the next victims of the local club. They will journey there on Sunday to meet the Kelseyville club there.

Fighter Insists That Punch Not Head Scored K.O.

Bud Korn of this city who according to spectators at the ring, side, opened an old cut over the eye of Marty Martinez at the boxing bouts at the Winter's arena last Friday night by batting Marty with his head, insists that it was his gloved hand and not his head that opened the old wound.
Bud is all wrought up over the report and states that he is willing to meet Martinez again at any time in the future with a winner take all purse to clear up the difference of opinion in the recent match.
If matchmaker Harry Eagles should manage to re-sign this bout and if what Korn says is true the result should be a merry mix-up that would be greatly appreciated by the paying customers.

Walter Camp Memorial Gateway

THIS imposing entrance to the famous Yale Bowl and other Yale athletic fields at New Haven, Conn., is to be the central feature of the $300,000 national memorial to the late Walter Camp. Under plans sponsored jointly by the National Collegiate Association and Yale University the tribute to the man who, during his life, was more intimately connected with the development of American football than any other individual is to be erected through gifts from 458 colleges and universities situated in every state in the Union. Scores of "prep" schools have also been invited to participate in the memorial.
It is estimated that half a million people will pass through this memorial archway every college year. In order that each one of them may know the extent of the affection for Walter Camp which existed on every college campus throughout the country the Memorial Committee has adopted a unique plan. On either side of the gateway pictured above will be a huge bronze panel on which will be inscribed the names of every "prep" school, college and university which contributes to the memorial fund. Yale alumni, through their committee, have pledged themselves to raise $150,000 of the cost. The remaining half is to be raised among all other colleges through a special committee headed by E. K. Hall of Dartmouth, chairman of the Football Rules Committee.

Apricot Festival And Dedication of Bridge at Antioch

Invitations have been sent out by the American Toll Bridge company and the East Contra Costa Chamber of Commerce to the dedication exercises and the opening of the Victory Bridge and Diablo Valley First Annual Apricot Festival on June 18, 19, and 20, at Antioch.

Bridge day will be held on June 19, and Apricot Day will be on June 20.

Antioch is gaily decorated for this event which will be one of the biggest of the year.

The bridge opening marks the completion of the Victory highway and the Antioch-Sherman Island bridge, thus cutting down the mileage of the trip from the East Bay to Sacramento.

Markers in honor of the veterans of Contra Costa county who died in the cause of justice, during the recent World War were dedicated on May 31, on the Victory highway.

Apricot Day is the celebration of the Eastern Contra Costa orchard owners for the success of their apricot growing venture.

Contract Let for Oiling Highway

Contract for oiling two miles of the Tunnel highway which has been newly graded and widened was yesterday awarded to the Hickey-Moore company according to word received from Martinez yesterday. The cost of the improvement is placed at $17,600.

A petition from the Lafayette Improvement club has been received by the board of supervisors urging the boring of a new tunnel at a lower level than the present one.

The improvement is asked to provide quicker transportation throughout Contra Costa county and to Oakland. The board expressed the belief that because of the costs the improvement will probably not be made at present.

Chamber Directors To Meet Tomorrow

Bride Says She Will Stand by Bandit on Trial

CHICAGO, June 7.—Martin James Durkin, drifter, bandit slayer of Government Agent Edward Shanahan, was perhaps in a trifle more jubilant mood today, while the long seemingly endless search for a jury continued in the court of Judge Harry B. Miller.

That jubilation wasn't because he has more faith in the outcome of his trial, but because Saturday Irma Sullivan Durkin, his girl bride the daughter of the village smith at Cornell, Ill., called at the jail and said she still loved him. Irma promised to be in court today. She wasn't there when the court session opened, but she is in Chicago.

Durkin, helping in the direction of his defense, sat close to his chief counsel, Eugene McGarry, and assisted him in the questioning of prospective jurors. He was "guarded" by a big, burly, sleepy negro.

Behind him were his mother and father and his two pretty sisters, Lucille and Anna. Lucille has attended every session of the court since the trial opened.

The court room was filled when Judge Miller ascended the bench this morning. There was a good sprinkling of flappers, calling to see the sheik slayer.

Durkin is a handsome chap, well groomed and having the appearance of a well-to-do man about town.

One hundred and forty jurors had been examined today before the first panel of four men was accepted and sworn in.

Business is no excuse for not wishing to serve on a jury. Judge Miller told one of the men who offered that reason for wishing to be excused.

The one hundred and thirtieth prospective juror to be examined was Fred Traicht, an employee of the book store at the University of Chicago. After he had been accepted by the State, he was turned over to the defense. He was slow in answering a number of questions, whereupon he was excused by Judge Miller.

"Let him go," the judge said. "The university wrote a letter to me that he would like to be excused. I don't know what things are coming to, when our institutions ask to have a man excused from jury service."

Another juror, a young salesman, was excused because he did not know the meaning of "conscientious scruples." The words were contained in a question by the State as to whether or not he would have any conscientious scruples about inflicting the death penalty.

Durkin laughed at this point. So did his family.

Neither the slayer nor his mother, father or sisters, have any doubt about the outcome of the case. They are confident that the defendant will be acquitted.

The defense as conducted by McGarry will argue that Durkin shot in self-defense.

McGarry is the attorney, who a month ago won a reputation for himself for winning the case of Mrs. Anna Zalimas, charged with slaying her husband by poison.

In order to convince the jury that the powder which the State contended was poison, was not poison, McGarry swallowed a handful of the stuff while making his argument. He was appointed by the court.

Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden, in dress uniform, is shown in conversation with President Coolidge at the ceremonies held at the unveiling of the Washington statue to Ericsson, inventor of the Monitor which did so much for the Union cause in the Civil War. Ink Well and Water Tumbler Start Battle at Congressional Hearing On Vet Guardianships

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Wham—Zip—Bang. An ink well hurled at Attorney Frank J. Hogan by Representative John E. Rankin, of Mississippi, started a riot in the Frederick E. Penning impeachment case before the house judiciary committee today which ended the session in a scene of wild disorder.

Hogan returned the ink-well shot by throwing a tumbler of water which missed Rankin's head by an inch. The combatants charged at each other. Tables and chairs were overturned. Spectators and witnesses milled about in a squirming mass. Women screamed.

Capitol police charged into the room and shoving and hauling the mob apart, finally restored order. The melee started after hot words had been exchanged between Rankin and Hogan during the cross-examination of Penning, District of Columbia commissioner charged with "wholesale" guardianship practices in mentally incompetent veterans cases, and other acts alleged to unfit him for his office.

Rankin, as prosecutor was grilling Penning. Who stubbornly refused to answer questions. Hogan, brilliant defense counsel, keeping the air surcharged with interruptions and objections.

"You can't insult me and get away with it," yelled Rankin, his eyes blazing. In another instant Rankin seized the ink-well and hurled it.

It struck on the table in front of Hogan, smashed, and scattered its black fluid in all directions.

Hogan's return shot with the water tumbler crashed somewhere beyond Rankin's head, showering a half dozen so-called innocent bystanders.

As Rankin started to get within closer range, Commissioner Penning jumped at him and struck the congressman a glancing blow, before being brushed aside.

Attorney Hogan, maneuvering around his table was attacked from the rear by a one-legged war veteran who struck him on the head with a cane and then leaped upon his back.

It was at this point that the engagement became general, chairs and tables being overturned and papers and documents scattered upon the floor as the two combatants tried to get at each other.

Rep. L. C. Dyer of Missouri, chairman of the committee, beat ceaselessly with his gavel for order, but it might as well have been a stuffed sock for all that the raps were heard amidst the din. Blue-coated police finally cleared the room. The session was over for the day.

Rep. Rankin, as prosecutor, was "pinch-hitting" for Rep. Thomas L. Blanton of Texas, who recently withdrawn from the hectic sessions for a much needed rest.

Throughout the morning Penning had been the target, for a savage grilling as to his treatment of war veterans in his scores of guardianship cases. Rankin finally sought to compel Penning to testify whether he had informed President Coolidge of his guardianship practice. This Penning refused. Hogan contended that if Penning testified to conversations with the president, the committee would be bound to summons President Coolidge as a witness, which is impossible.

"You therefore cannot compel my client to testify to his part of a conversation without disclosing the remainder," said Hogan.

Early this year Rankin engaged in a set-to with Rep. Ogden L. Mills of New York on the floor of the house.

The El Cerrito Board of Trustees last night stated the cars were left standing by the railroad company at the crossing on Fairmont avenue in such a way as to allow only one machine to use the street at a time and that the city should make the railroad company spot their cars so it would not interfere with traffic.

The matter was referred to City Attorney Wilbur Pierce.

Light Commissioner Fred Lutz reported that the money in the light fund had been exhausted and the application for lights in the Boden tract would have to be refused.

The report was accepted by the trustees.

On the suggestion of Trustee Frank McDermott the board instructed City Marshal Forrest Wright to get an estimate on the painting and wiring of the garage in the back of the city hall.

Parr Plan Adopted By City Council

be in accordance with all laws, federal, state and city. These buildings or improvements will become the property of the city which agrees to reimburse the terminal company for the cost of construction.

Although the lease is for fifty years, a provision states that in event of a law establishing the legal term of a lease for a number of years less than that called for, the company shall be given a lease for the longest term provided by law.

The company reserves the right to handle all shipping. This is to include stevedoring, freighting, shipping and all other factors in the handling of cargoes and agrees to permit all ships to dock providing there are facilities for handling them. A cost of the same amount as charged by other harbors on San Francisco bay will be charged all ships as toll.

According to the terms of the lease, the net income, half of which is to be given to the city each year, is construed as meaning all money above cost of operation and development of premises and facilities after a reasonable amount has been deducted for overhead expenses.

All property, building and wharves are to be assessed by the city and are not to be subject to state, county or municipal taxes and all taxes paid shall be assessed to the Terminal company's improvement account.

The city reserves any and all rights of way sewer outlets, gas, water and other means for public and municipal improvements providing such rights shall in no way be a detriment to the company's development.

The terminal company becomes liable for any damages on account of injury to individuals or property of others as well as injuries caused by accident to employees.

An account of the proceeds is to be made in from of an estimate on the fifteenth day of each month and the payments on the net income are to be made on January 1 of each year, beginning January 1927.

By the terms of the contract the Terminal agrees that the amount of cargo to pass through the premises shall at least be 1,500,000 tons during the first ten years; 1,750,000 during the second ten years; 2,000,000 tons the third ten years and 2,500,000 during each ten year period following.

The company will endeavor to bring to Richmond as many industries as possible to build their plants and settle upon the lands adjacent to the harbor.

For a period of five years the company agrees that all cases arising from the terms of the lease shall be tried to Contra Costa courts and agrees not to ask for a change of venue. All of the provisions for the lease shall be binding on successors to both parties and in the event that the Terminal company does not live up to the terms of the contract and the lease becomes terminated the leases of the industries secured by the Terminal company shall not be interfered with.

Fred Parr, president of the Parr Terminal company of Oakland was present at the meeting last night and addressed the council and the group of interested citizens which crowded the council chambers. He spoke on the work he intended to accomplish and stated that he was pleased with the welcome given him, by the presidents of Richmond during the time the negotiations were progressing.

"I don't want this lease unless I am positive that I can accomplish the things, before it is handed over to me. I am confident that I can get a decision within a few weeks. It may take sixty days, due to the routine work connected with the departments of industries, but I anticipate action within thirty days," declared Parr in his address.

"It seems that everything works in a circle. You can not get industries without deep water and you can not get deep water without industries."

"By assuring the government that tonnage at the harbor warrants federal aid, I know from the conference held in San Francisco several weeks ago that the government will be only too glad to co-operate. But until we can show the government that we need the improvement and have the tonnage to merit the work, we can not expect further aid."

"With the federal aid, the $128,000 voted in bonds for harbor improvement together with the interest accrued, will total approximately $140,000, an amount sufficient to dredge the harbor to a depth of thirty feet needed for ocean-going ships."

"The benefits to be derived by Richmond will be an increased property valuation and an increase in taxable wealth which Richmond badly needs."

In speaking of the lease, Mayor W. W. Scott declared "The council tonight has passed the first hearing of the lease. It is not final until the Parr Terminal company shows us exactly what it has to offer and if it is entirely satisfactory the lease will not pass its second reading and we will be back where we started."

Councilman E. J. Garrard in speaking of the lease said: "I have faith in Mr. Parr and if he carries out his plans Richmond will grow by leaps and bounds."

BILLS OPPOSE "SELLING" OF U. S. OFFICES

(By Universal Service)

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Without a ripple of opposition the House today passed two bills aiming death blows at wholesale corruption and graft in the distribution of federal patronage particularly in southern states.

One of the bills filed by Wyrbach, Republican of Texas, requires every federal appointee to sign an affidavit that he has not paid or promised anything but faithful service for his position.

The other introduced by Stevenson, Democrat of South Carolina, provides that anyone convicted of soliciting or receiving money for using his influence to land a federal office for some one, shall be imprisoned for not more than one year or fined not more than $1,000 or both.

Margaret Wilson, 42, of Oakland, who was arrested by Richmond police Saturday night on the charge of prowling, failed to appear before Judge C. A. Odell yesterday and forfeited her bail placed at $25.

The woman was arrested when the officers found her prowling about the streets of the West Side and later in the business district of the city.

COUNTY CLERK

George F. Imbach, it is reported will make announcement next week of his candidacy for the office of county clerk, against Jasper H. Wells, who has held the position for over 20 years. Imbach has quietly been making a tour of the county, and it is stated he has friends in each precinct who will go out and aid him in the battle. Imbach is very popular here, and is well known in all parts of Contra Costa county. For two years he conducted a coffee business and made the territory from Richmond to Brentwood, practically calling on each household. At the present time he is in the insurance business, and is averaging 600 calls weekly on the homes of Richmond. Imbach is an Elk, a Mason, a Scot, and a Veteran of the Foreign Wars.

EASTERN END CANDIDATES

The eastern end of the county is said to be demanding recognition from the voters of the county and it is reported that Antioch will have a candidate for auditor, and that Pittsburg will likely have a candidate for superintendent of schools and tax collector.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY

In regard to the district attorney office, there is talk that either Wilbur S. Pierce or Tsar N. Calfee will be contenders with A. B. Tinning. Both of the above mentioned men are very strong, and have a large following in all parts of the county.

SUPERVISORS CONTEST

For supervisor of the first district, Zeb Knott (incumbent) and Henry A. Johnston will oppose each other. Johnston has made his formal announcement, and Knott is expected in the near future. It is stated that Johnston has been working on his campaign for the past three months and has a well organized campaign committee, representing each precinct in the district, which will take charge of his fight.
